Hi Molly,

Thank you for your email. Yes, I am planning on submitting another appeal application as soon as Loyola changes my student status. I am currently appealing my dismissal from Stritch and if that appeal is successful then I will send my appeal to your office to request double time on the exam.

The appeal meeting is set for October 18th and I will write back once I get their decision. But as of right now, I am holding my breath.

Thank you for all of your help in this matter.

With kind regards,

Marcus

We have added the letter to your existing file, however, please note that because you do not currently have a request in process with Disability Services, there is no further action we can take at this time. Please let me know if you are planning to register for an exam and submit additional documentation for a new request.
